

Maestrale

MAESTRALE is a coat stand made entirely of ebony-stained birch plywood, with visible bronze-coloured details made of lathe-turned metal. A refined and elegant piece of complementary furnishing whose materials suggest a nautical theme, the coat stand, through its shape and design, evokes and pays homage to the sophisticated furniture style of Italian rationalism from the 1930s and 1940s.

The stand is composed of five identical elements that, joined together in rotation from the base, build up an overall structure in which solids and voids are combined to form spaces for hanging up clothes and personal belongings.

MAESTRALE is the result of a design philosophy in which each element is considered not individually but as part of a single overall structure.
